Songs, that are touching and that are including authentic emotions: sentimentality yes, being tearful no! That is „Broken Wings“, the full-length-debut by austrian singer-songwriter Magdalena Piatti. The songs come with piano, violin and cello-sounds and with the beautiful voice of Magdalena Piatti, all that captures the audience from the very first song: These charming pop-songs do also have a classical touch because of the string-sounds. „I do melodramatic pop, popmusic with classical elements“, Piatti says. „The songs deal with loss and hope, the single „It’s too late“ tells about emotional moments in life everyone might know.“ Will these „Broken Wings“ ever mend – and will they let these songs fly away to far of places?

Magdalena Piatti started singing as a child, studied piano as a teenager and graduated in piano and jazz at Vienna University in 2008. Through the last years she started writing her own songs and is part of the austrian singer-songwriting-scene. It’s up to the wings again: They took these songs and its composer to concerts in the Netherlands and Germany. How far will this journey go? We will see and listen patiently...
